They said Lorn Chambers packed death in his black holsters. But Chambers was a relic from the past, the last of the great gunfighters. All the others were dead or had hung up their guns, trying to change with the times. Chambers turned his back on the future and rode off into the western wasteland, looking for what was left of the past.

Hi, During the early 1960's, Marines that were issued a pistol would dye the front of the holster black. They would then spitshine the holster just like they would their combat boots. The back of the holster was left natural otherwise the black dye would ruin trousers. Hope this helps, Jim.

did they ever use black dye on M1916 holsters during WWII ...

Introducing the SCT Travel Holster. It seems these days that anything made from black plastic is automatically labeled "tactical." The SCT is tactical because it serves a unique purpose and uses a carefully planned design to achieve a specific end: providing the absolute fastest, most secure, and least obstructive way to access your firearm while traveling.
