It is a poem about a mother's, or the poet's, struggles to face her son maturing, and having to experience school. The mother feels powerless and she worries about her son going to school. To her, there will be challenges and struggles from which she cannot protect him. The prospect of 'football after school' fears her, as he "dribbles the sun about the place", which conveys how she thinks the football, as the "sun", will become his life, and will become his focus rather than ...

Football after School, Patricia McCarthy. You'll be one of them in a few years, warpaint slicked over your face - your common language jeers, dribbling the sun about the place with the premature swagger of manhood, butting it with your head: your school tie a stiff striped dagger. Yes, soon you'll be picking scabs of kisses off your skin as each kick
