Complication: "well" can be an adverb OR a predicate adjective. He runs well (well = adverb, describing run) I am well (well = predicate adjective describing I, but most resources say that in this case "well" means "healthy", not "I'm having a great day.") The thing to remember is linking verbs describe emotions or states of being

Instead we should use adjectives, to describe ourselves (people are nouns) instead of the verb itself. That's why we say "I am hungry" instead of "I am hungrily" and "I feel happy" instead of "I feel happily." Another issue with the verb "to feel" is that it has another, more literal definition: to touch with your hands.

Basically, the argument is that "well" is an adverb and "good" is an adjective. The Research Breaks It Down. If you say "I eat good" it is wrong because you would use the adverb, well, to describe the verb and the adjective, good, to describe a noun.

“good” is an adjective. As a result, sticklers for grammar think “I am good” should be incorrect since an adjective is being use to modify the verb “am” in this sentences.
