~~The publication of Looking for Palestine: Growing Up Confused in an Arab-American Family, by Najla Said (Edward-Mariam Said's daughter) is a beauty of a book to read. The journey into and through Najla's life (and the implications of such a trail trekked for her immediate and extended family) is well told and poignantly recounted in Looking for Palestine.~~

~~Najla Said, Looking for Palestine: Growing Up Confused in ...~~

~~Looking for Palestine: Growing Up Confused in an Arab-American Family. The United States may be the last nation to imagine Palestine. We have so much more to untangle than the rest of the world. So a memoir by an American woman raised in the heart of the New York City elite is a welcome addition to the newly emerging literature by and about this multidimensional people living in exile in diaspora or under occupation and siege.~~
