Women are making headway in terms of access to and representation in leadership roles. Consequently, organizations are discovering how and why diversity creates value, both in terms of creativity as well as profitability and long-term sustainability. Despite the progress of the past decades, the ratio of women to men in the C-suite - in even the most developed economies - is dismally low.

Stress is a normal part of life. The body's stress responses are your first line of defense in life-threatening situations, and many of the effects of stress—such as increased alertness, resiliency, and adaptation—are positive and have allowed our species to survive and evolve over time. However, prolonged stress is another story.
