September 9, 2020 Jake Seliger Comment In theory, an "application guide" for a Small Business Innovation and Research (SBIR) grant from a federal agency is meant to make the application process easier: the applicant should presumably be able to read the application guide and follow it, right? Wrong, as it turns out.

NIH is required by the law to notify the funding decisions on the SBIR/STTR applications within 12 months. Even though you knew your application was not going to be funded, NIH still needs to send out the notification within 12 months. The decision on an earlier application does not influence the funding consideration of later submissions.
