Abstract. Expansion of trade in manufactures between developed and developing countries has had a far greater effect on labour markets than earlier research suggested. In developing countries (the South), unskilled workers have benefited most from this trade, but in developed countries (the North) the gains have been concentrated on those with skills, while unskilled workers have suffered falling wages and rising unemployment, which has worsened income distribution and aggravated other ...

This paper analyzes a North-South trade model with offshoring and unemployment due to union wage setting. A reduction in the cost of offshoring decreases employment in the North except possibly if there is little offshoring initially. If the scale of Northern firms also falls, then each Northern agent's welfare declines. Unions have an incentive to reduce their own bargaining power by ...
