Anne Blankman grew up in a small town near Albany, New York. When Anne was twelve, she read Anne Frank's diary and has been haunted by World War II ever since. The idea for Prisoner of Night and Fog came to her after she learned about Geli Raubal, Hitler's beloved half niece who once shared his Munich apartment. Anne began wondering what it would have been like to be a young girl growing up in the Nazi elite's hypermasculine and violent world.

Prisoner of Night and Fog Quotes by Anne Blankman

Nacht und Nebel (German: [ˈnaxt ˈnt ˈneːbl]), meaning Night and Fog, was a directive issued by Adolf Hitler on 7 December 1941 targeting political activists and resistance "helpers" in World War II, who were to be imprisoned, killed, or made to disappear, while the family and the population remained uncertain as to the fate or whereabouts of the Nazi state's alleged offender. Victims who disappeared in these clandestine actions were never heard from again.
