Ford, Ultimate Green. The second generation of Focus RS was a ground-breaking car for a number of reasons (not least because of its revolutionary 'RevoKunckle' front differential), but if you were to ask the average man or woman on the street what they remembered most about the car, they'd probably mention the colour first.

Thankfully in Britain unlike in USA a red car doesn't attract any attention of the wrong kind or even insurance loading, in USA most companies where the car is red or black would charge a higher premium if you're a younger driver. It also tends to attract the attention of the police where they think you'll be more likely to commit an offence.
