Art and social work

Social practice is an art medium focusing on engagement through human interaction and social discourse. Since people and their relationships form the medium of such works – rather than a particular process of production – social engagement is not only a part of a work ' s organization, execution, or continuation, but also an aesthetic in itself: of interaction and development. Socially engaged art aims to create social and/or political change through collaboration with individuals ...

Debates on the art and science of social work persist (Grady & Keenan, 2014). Recently, I heard fellow social workers ask how the profession can stay relevant as it balances the art and science of social work. Some social workers emphasize that practitioners should use science-based approaches to advance practice goals.
