Dynamic Theory of Gravity. Nikola Tesla's life (1856 ¶ 1943) spanned two scientific periods: that of the 19th century which saw the universe as filled with an invisible matter, [the aether], and that of the 20th century which saw the universe as an empty vacuum with bits of matter in random motion. As an example of the difference between these two world views when the idea of the electron was proposed at the end of the 1800s it was then pictured as a spinning vortex of this aether ...

If we replace the words electromagnetic, electric, magnetic with gravity we can deeper understand Tesla's work on that line: "The theory I propose may therefore be called a theory of the Electromagnetic Field, because it has to do with the space in the neighbourhood of the electric or magnetic bodies, and it may be called a Dynamical Theory, because it assumes that in that space there is matter in motion, by which the observed electromagnetic phenomena are produced."

Speculations about Tesla's Dynamic Theory Of Gravity- All ponderable bodies are constantly in motion in through space. Absence of a medium would result in no electromagnetic forces (the space-vacuum fabric is a medium, the aether (the ultimate medium)) Ponderable bodies and other media filling space all possess a dielectric level.
