This site is about women and guns, not about cats. But in a way, it's about the cornered cat in all of us. It's about the determination to get away from an attacker if you need to. It's about making the decision to say, "Not me. Not mine. Not today." And it's about the tools to make that decision stick. My name is Kathy Jackson. I'm a firearms instructor, a homeschool mom, a small business owner, a former magazine editor, a freelance writer, and the author of this website.

It's tempting for the fashionable woman to immediately discard the notion of carrying a firearm on the belt. And yet, belt carry offers so many significant advantages, and so few drawbacks, that unless it is ruled out by truly unusual circumstances, it should be the first choice. After all, belt carry is the single most common method of carry, and has been so for many years; there are good ...
