December 5, 2012. In 1947, Sigmund Freud's nephew Edward Bernays published an essay entitle "The Engineering of Consent.". Bernays defined "the engineering of consent" as the art of manipulating people, specifically Americans, whom Bernays described as "fundamentally irrational" and not to be trusted. Undisciplined, non-intellectual, and amoral people (Bernays claimed) are vulnerable to influences of which they are not even aware ...

Manufacturing Consent: The Political Economy of the Mass Media is a 1988 book by Edward S. Herman and Noam Chomsky, in which the authors propose that the mass communication media of the U.S. "are effective and powerful ideological institutions that carry out a system-supportive propaganda function, by reliance on market forces, internalized assumptions, and self-censorship, and without overt coercion", by means of the propaganda model of communication.
