The Long Way Home is a 1997 American documentary film directed by Mark Jonathan Harris. It depicts the plight of Jewish refugees after World War II that contributed to the creation of the State of Israel . The film's emphasis is on the pitiful conditions for Jewish refugees in Europe after the war, as antisemitism was still rife and poverty was common.

I've been taking the long way from work lately. It's the fault of VABI (Venice Area Beautification Inc.) and the city workers who have anything to do with the city's appearance. Thanks to the original John Nolen Plan and the original landscape plan of Nolen's friend, Prentiss French, Venice had a seriously good head start on most other ...

Z.A. Maxfield is a new-to-me author, and I was intrigued by the synopsis for The Long Way Home, a romantic mystery featuring an ex-cop who gained some sort of psychic ability following a serious car accident, and the detective assigned to babysit him when he is called in to consult on a particularly disturbing case.
