According to this book, my personality is quite a neurotic one, which makes me panicked. Some observations and views are too acute to bear, but I always prefer to know and to face the truth as long as it is true. Very insightful and enlightening book. I do agree that the conflicts in our hearts are deeply rooted in the contradictions in our ...

The Neurotic Need for Affection and Approval. This need includes the desires to be liked, to please other people, and meet the expectations of others. People with this type of need are extremely sensitive to rejection and criticism and fear the anger or hostility of others. 2.

Horney's Theory of Neurotic Needs - Verywell Mind

Rather than writing about specific behavioral symptoms, Horney described neurotic personality in terms of underlying character disturbances resulting from social and cultural circumstances. She argued that all neurotic patients, while possessing unique neurotic personalities, shared the same fundamental disruptions in their personality structure.
