I really love the introductory color coding. It not only reinforces the concept of a paragraph and gives them a basic "recipe" for it, but these paragraphs serve as good writing models for the kids to follow. Once we're done color coding a paragraph, we flip our paper over and make a t-chart (words, not sentences) on the back in pencil.

~~Teaching Paragraph Writing: Topic Sentences - The Teacher~~

Most paragraphs in an essay have a three-part structure-introduction, body, and conclusion. You can see this structure in paragraphs whether they are narrating, describing, comparing, contrasting, or analyzing information. Each part of the paragraph plays an important role in communicating your meaning to your reader.
